

DEPARTMENT OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND CRIMINOLOGY
CRIME AND THE MEDIA CJ4360.01
SAM HOUSTON STATE UNIVERSITY
Spring 2018 ONLINE

Instructor: Dave Barber

Email: dmbarber50@yahoo.com dmb023@shsu.edu

I've noticed that students in previous classes have had some confusion about what to call me. I am not a Ph.D so please don't call me Doctor. As an adjunct with a Master's Degree, I probably don't qualify for the title of professor either. I realize many of you would be uncomfortable calling me Dave because of my age and position in the class and I'm not comfortable being called Mr. Barber. So here's a quick fix. Call me Chief. If you'll look at the instructor information tab you'll see why the title is appropriate. I'm still called Chief by many of my previous associates and colleagues and the moniker works for me. Hope it's OK for you as well.

Required Textbooks/ Readings:

Jewkes, Yvonne, (2015). Media and Crime. 3rd edition. Sage Rafter, Nicole, (2006). Shots in the Mirror: Crime Films and Society. 2nd edition. Oxford University Press.

Course Description:

This course surveys the connections between the mass media, crime, and criminal justice. It will explore how the criminal justice system, criminals, and crime are portrayed in film and news media. It examines how the media reflects our collective perceptions of crime, violence and victimization; as well as shape our attitudes toward crime.

Course Objectives:

We will work together to make sure you walk away from this class:

1. with a good understanding of the process through which "crime news" is created and consumed.
2. With a good understanding of the development of crime film as a genre and the various depictions of crime, offenders, and victims in modern film.
3. with the ability to practice "critical viewing" or the ability to view media as constructed products that communicate cultural values, beliefs, and expectations for behavior.

Course Participation Policy:

I would suggest that you maintain a schedule of logging in several times a week. An online class differs from a face-to-face course in that you must pace yourself and complete your work independently. This is not as easy as it sounds. You must be organized and conscientious to complete the course successfully. We do not have the flexibility to adjust the course during the semester. Therefore, course work including discussions, quizzes and assignments will not be accepted late. Remember, lessons open up each Tuesday at 11:59 PM and all requirements are due the following Tuesday at 11:59 PM. You will not normally be able to go back and complete missed work once a session concludes.

Make up exams:

I do not give make up exams for two reasons. One, your work is due any time during the week which means you have the flexibility to arrange your schedule. Two, I post a review of the week's work after each lesson closes. Obviously, it would not be good policy to allow make up work after the answers are posted in the review. However, there will be some extra credit opportunities at the end of the semester you may take advantage of if you need to.

Course Policies:

Academic Honesty: Students found cheating in the course will receive an "F" for the entire course. This policy includes all written / research assignments, quizzes, and the final. Cheating includes:

- passing your work off as someone else's (taking a test or quiz for someone)
- passing someone else's work off as your own (letting someone take a test or quiz for you)
- copying answers from someone else's exam or quiz
- letting someone copy your answers from an exam or quiz
- turning in written work that has been copied from another source
- working with another student on written paper and using his or her words or ideas in your paper without credit.
- colluding with a student to complete an assignment in which all of the work for that assignment is not your own
- turning in any writing that is not IN YOUR OWN WORDS or correctly cited!

The University's policy toward cheating and plagiarism can be found at the following website.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is the act of not properly crediting your sources of information through the proper utilization of textual citations and a source list. If it is not a product of your own, original research, your own original idea, thought, or words, you must cite your source in your text. You must also include a works cited list. Failure to do so will be considered academic dishonesty and will be dealt with as such.

Disabled Student Policies and Service Information:

Students with a disability that affects their academic performance are expected to arrange for a conference with the instructor in order that appropriate strategies can be considered to ensure that participation and achievement opportunities are not impaired. The physically impaired may contact the Director of Counseling Services as Chair of the Committee for Continuing Assistance for Disabled Students by telephone (extension 1720). For more information about University policy's toward and services to disabled students see the links below.

Sam Mail and Netiquite:

Use cautious discretion about what material you post or email to other students and make sure it pertains to the ongoing discussion or contributes to the general class discussion.

Remember everyone in the class including the instructor can and will read your posts.

Please keep sensitive information private, avoid vulgar, suggestive or offensive language, and keep all discourse civil.

Other Course Requirements:

Computer & Internet. Part of this class requires that you be able to regularly gain access to the World Wide Web. Please be sure to contact the SHSU Support Desk if you have any problems connecting or access materials or tools in this course (blackboard@shsu.edu or 936-294-2780).

Document Formatting:

Written assignments must be submitted in Times Roman 12 pt. font. Submit your assignments, discussion, and quizzes directly into Blackboard unless otherwise instructed.

The breakdown of exam values and the final grading scale follows:

Assignment/Item	#	Points per each	Total Points	%
Writing/Research Assignments	12	100	1200	50
Quizzes	12	10	120	25
Discussion	12	100	1200	10
Final Exam	1	100	100	15

Students are responsible for the assigned readings and all Blackboard lecture material covered in the class. Content from the readings and lectures will be included in the exams and quizzes. Quizzes are in multiple choice format. Written assignments come from various sources that you will be directed to weekly. The final is based upon the reviews that are posted after each lesson closes.

This is a “W” course which means that at least 50 percent of your course grade will derive from writing activities designed to help you master course objectives
