Tk20 account statement

Tk20 Account is required for this course. Tk20 is an electronic toolkit used by candidates to provide evidence that they have mastered state and professional standards for the profession. Additional information regarding Tk20 is available at this link.

Course format and content

The content of this course is delivered online using Blackboard and other Web 2.0 tools. In addition, course concepts are learned through self-study, online peer/group discussions and responses, as well as individualized professor comments. Evaluation consists of self-evaluations, peer evaluations, and professor assessments for products and discussions.

See the course schedule and course modules. Modules will also indicate which on- line tools to use and where to upload assignments.

Course requirements

Late Assignment Policy: Because your active participation is so important, it is imperative that all assignments be submitted on time. Electronically submitted assignments will be considered “on time” if submitted by midnight (technically 11:59 PM) on the due date, unless otherwise noted (NOTE: All due dates/times are based on Central Standard Time). Submission of work after midnight will be considered late.

Late assignments for extenuating circumstances (approved by the professor before the due date) will receive a 20% deduction (professor decision) in points for each day late. Work schedule and other normal/routine activities do not constitute extenuating circumstances. All assignments, including TK20, must be completed in order to receive a final grade for this course.

Time Requirement: You are expected to participate during the complete amount of time for cooperative group discussions and reflection of readings in order to receive full credit. Former students of the course indicated the cooperative groups and/or open discussion postings helped each other understand the goals and objectives of the course. Less than complete participation will result in LOWER INDIVIDUAL grades, not the group itself. Student participation is tracked for the professor by the course history tool.

Class documents, assignment instructions, and handouts for this online course can be found in Blackboard and will be available for reading prior to actual due dates. Students have specific due dates to either post answers or responses to colleagues or to specific assignments to the professor. The evaluations of these postings and responses will be made by the professor utilizing various Web 2.0 tools and the designated criteria provided with each assignment. Incomplete or incorrect postings will result in lower scores on assignments.

Technology Requirements: It is expected that graduate candidates who register for online courses have the following computer skills: sending/receiving emails, attaching documents to emails, creating tables, using Web 2.0 tools, using Blackboard, conducting online research, and using library electronic reserves. Microsoft Word is the word processing program that is necessary to complete the assignments.

It is also necessary that students have access to a computer at home since much of the work for an online course is done in the evenings and on weekends. It is also expected that graduate students who register for an online course feel comfortable using a computer. Online courses move quickly and all students need to hit the ground running. This is NOT a place to begin learning the technology skills necessary for success.

Community Service Project: The Academic Civic Engagement (ACE) aspect of this course involves completing one service (tutoring) project. You must document 9 hours of tutoring a diverse learner in your content area/certification level throughout the course period. Assignments include the Portrait of a Diverse Learner Journal and Reflection Paper. You will not only learn the knowledge and skills taught through this course, but also actively use them to help improve the learning opportunities of children in the community. This experience, it is hoped, will help you see yourself as a positive force in this world and deepen your understanding of your role as a current/future teacher. Details/guidelines are posted in the PDL Module.

Professionalism Policy: It is expected that graduate students be active, enthusiastic, and collegial participants during the semester. Points will be lost if these expectations are not fulfilled. Attendance (for online courses this is measured by logging in to Blackboard in timely and consistent fashions), punctuality, the quality of your interactions with colleagues and supervisors, and the quality and timeliness regarding completing assignments all determine your professionalism, which in turn, signals your readiness to advance in the degree process. The professor has the ability to see time spent in Blackboard by individual students. The instructor reserves the right to refer any unprofessional behavior to the Professional Concerns Committee. This COULD impact your completion of the Graduate Program.

All written correspondence are evaluated for professional content, grammar, punctuation, word usage, and spelling. You are encouraged to utilize the support of the SHSU Writing Center. APA format is required.

Resignations/Withdrawals: If you are unable to continue in this course, it is your responsibility to either drop the course or resign from the university. A course dropped after the Q Drop deadline (see SHSU Academic Calendar) will result in a grade of F on your transcript and termination from the graduate program.

To “resign”, i.e. withdraw from all classes in which you are registered, you must notify the Registrar’s Office and process a Resignation Request. Failure to resign will result in a grade of F in each course you are enrolled. The student is responsible for initiating the “DROP” and informing the instructor.

Community Engagement: In this course, you will not only learn knowledge and skills, but also actively use them to make a difference in our community. this experience, it is hoped, will help you to see yourself as a positive force and deepen your understanding.

NCATE Accreditation

The Sam Houston State University, College of Education has the distinction of NCATE accreditation since 1954. As an NCATE accredited program, the College of Education ensures that the best-prepared teachers will be in classrooms teaching the next generation of leaders how to solve problems, communicate effectively, and work collaboratively.

In November 2010, NCATE merged with the Teacher Education Accreditation Council (TEAC) to become the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP), combining the two premiere accrediting organizations as a single accrediting agency for reform, innovation, and research in educator preparation. SHSU will continue to be NCATE accredited through its next review scheduled for November 2015.

The Conceptual Framework and Model

The COE Conceptual Framework establishes the shared vision of the college in preparing educators to work with P-12 students through programs dedicated to collaboration in instruction, field experience, and research, the candidates in Sam Houston State University's Educator Preparation Programs acquire the knowledge, dispositions, and skills necessary to create a positive learning environment preparing educators to work with P-12 students. Employing a variety of technologies, candidates learn to plan, implement, assess, and modify instruction to meet the needs of diverse learners. The Conceptual Framework (CF) incorporates five (5) indicators throughout the framework that serve to identify areas tied to course work where there is evidence of Conceptual Framework and goals assessment. The five indicators are: Knowledge Base (CF1), Technological Learning Environment (CF2), Communication (CF3), Assessment (CF4), and Effective Field Experience with Diverse Learners (CF5)

College of Education information

Please be advised that the College of Education conducts ongoing research regarding the effectiveness of the programs. You will receive one survey in the final semester prior to graduation regarding the operations of the unit during your time here. A second survey will occur within one year following graduation from or completion of a program, and will be sent to you and to your employer. This survey will focus on the preparation received at SHSU. Please remember that your response to these surveys is critical to SHSU program excellence.
